THE ART OF BILLIARDS.

Impressions of the Stevenson Gray Match.

It would need the brush of a famous impressionist to make a picture of the scene of a great billiard match, so curious are the effects that come from sharp contrasts of light and shade, writes a Mere Spectator in The Standard. Carriers could have done it—has done it, I believe, or something very similar: the auditorium of a theatre, with the light coming only from the stage. But the effects obtained in the Holborn Hall, where Stevenson and Gray are playing, are more striking, more weird, more stimulating to the imagination than any that have been seen in a theatre.

Imagine a splash of vivid green—lit with intense light, which comes from no visible source—floating upon an inky sea of gloom. There is no horizon to this murky ocean—it is lost in dark clouds banked up on every side. One gets the impression of boundless, impenetrable space. From the surface of the sea there rises a gray vapour which mounts into the dome of the sky, above the patch of light; and swimming in the waves of the ocean and floating in the banked-up clouds are ghostly shapes innumerable. One can see faces, blurred and featureless, but horribly distinct. They sway gently to and fro, as if stirred by the wind or the tide. There are no bodies to the faces. A confused mass of sound rolls up from the ocean—a deep roar, now faint, now formidable, as if surf breaking on a shore; strange howlings, like the cries of night birds, and now and again a sharp rattle as of thunder.

So the green billiard table, bathed in light; the banks of spectators, sitting in the deep shadow, with the roar of their burning tobacco helping the gloom to hide walls and ceiling; the roar and rattle and scream of the traffic outside. The players too, as they stand within the glare of the table, produce the curious effect which has been cleverly utilized by poster artists. One sees just their faces, their hands, portions of white shirt fronts, a length of watch chain; all else is lost in the black background.

THE BILLIARD PLAYER'S TEMPERAMENT.

Temperament, I take it, plays a big part in the making of a great billiard player as in the making of a great golfer, and both Stevenson and Gray must be endowed with a nervous system peculiarly well adapted to the exercise of their profession. But, as nothing is perfect in human nature, there are flaws even in the temperament of a champion cueist. Perhaps the game would not be worth watching if there were none. Looking at the match it seemed to me that Stevenson's weakness was lack of patience, nervousness, in the sense that most of us know it, does not affect his game at all. He is an artist at his work, a consummate artist. When he takes up his cue he becomes absorbed in his art; though all the world were looking on he would not know that there were spectators; he forgets the value of the stake; the whole effort of his mind is centred on making those glistening spheres respond to his will. It is pure delight to watch him play; the delicacy of his touch is exquisite, yet it is masterful in its firmness; his game is inspired, it unfolds itself like the melody of a rare composer, a thing of beauty and of infinite variety, never varying upon the commonplace.

STEVENSON'S ARTISTRY.

Stevenson's artistic soul hates the commonplace, the monotonous—that is his weakness as a professional billiard player. One afternoon he showed us that he could play Gray's hazard game perhaps better than Gray himself, but the monotony of it seemed to bore him; he appeared to lose patience with the sameness of it, and dashed off, after a certain time, into all-round play, or back to his top of the table game. In the same way, after he has made a certain number of points, he gets careless—stuck, as it were, of going on with an exercise that is so ridiculously easy. So, when one has the impression that he cannot break down, he surprises what is for him an easy shot.

Gray, on the other hand, is nervous—a not unnatural failing considering his almost extreme youth. He was never certain of himself in the all-round game. He would hesitate, drum with his left fingers on his knee; or rest the tips of them upon the table while he gazed at the balls. Then he would change his mind several times about the shot, bobbing up and down before finally getting into position, with his chin almost resting on his cue. Several times—half a dozen, perhaps—he got the balls in position for his favourite middle-pocket game; but though he played it with less hesitation than his all-round shots, he did not show the skill that he displayed last season. Though no sign of showed in his face, he seemed to be nervous; his strength was not perfect; the red ball did not come back again with the necessary exactness; and once, when the last chance of the afternoon was at stake, it rolled into baulk.

To me Gray's game, though it included many brilliant shots, did not seem to be in the same class as Stevenson's; there was not the same finish or certainty about it; and there was no artistry or inspiration. But, then, I cannot pretend to know anything about billiards. I can only speak as one of the unsophisticated crowd.

for the first instance of a fundamental change tacked on to a money bill of the good or bad effects of which nothing has been said. That the change is fundamental and will prove very detrimental to the constitution of the House of Commons very little consideration will demonstrate. It has too frequently been assumed that service in the Commons is entirely unremunerated, because the class of people who make the assertion have no idea that there are those who will be content to render their very best services for any other consideration than current coin of the realm. There has always been yielded to those chosen to represent their fellowmen in the council of the nation a large measure of respect, admiration, power, and we will even add affection, which has been held to be an ample reward so that to add a money payment is really to remunerate such persons twice over. A mean man may find this an agreeable state of things, but unluckily it will not endure. In exact proportion as material advantages accrue will the immaterial deteriorate. Witness the loss of influence of the Labour members over those whom they are supposed to represent. Probably only the more violent of the fraternity will ever be elected again and the more far-seeing of them know it. Moderation is a virtue little esteemed by the proletariat. Such ideas as they have, however, have never been thrashed out, the opportunity of stating them has never been granted.

In the near future we are promised two measures of primary importance, of which Home Rule is to have the first place, and as it is one of the greatest perplexity and of overwhelming gravity it would appear that the disendowment of the Welsh Church is to be smuggled in upon the heels of it as a comparatively trivial, or as a relaxation after the more serious labour of destroying the Empire has been effected. Already the disestablishment of a portion of the Church of England is assumed as having been determined by the Radical press; following the lead of LEYD GEORGE the principle is condemned without argument and the only thing to be discussed is the division of the plunder when one more henroost has been robbed. The question of Home Rule would appear to be treated in much the same manner. The English constituencies are boldly asked to rely on the ipse dixit of Mr. REDMOND that Home Rule in Ireland will not prove detrimental to the interests of the Empire at large and no attempt is to be made to forecast the probable natural results of a policy which is so new and strange that there is scarcely a precedent in history on which to found an opinion. The nation is asked to take a leap in the dark without troubling to make investigation beforehand as to the nature of the ground upon which it is likely to alight. The politics of the present day, in all verity, have sunk from the maintaining of great principles to the adjusting of certain sections, even of individuals, too often behind the back of parliament itself, just as the main lines of conduct are settled behind the back of the people themselves.

There were 1000 tons of the north-east coast of the United Kingdom during 1911, 390 vessels, totalling 1,064,019 tons—a record. The Clyde turned out 403 vessels, totalling 618,910 tons, which is also a record.

Mr. John Charles Wildin, of the Hongkong Revenue Service, has been granted a divorce, by Mr. Justice Bagnave Deane, from his wife Emily Louise Wildin, on the ground of adultery with an unknown co-repondent.

It is stated that the doctors opposed to the National Insurance Act are raising half a million sterling to guarantee the profession against loss and to make the boycott of the Act possible even in the districts where the doctors' organisation is weakest.

The court martial which inquired into the blowing up of the French battleship Liberte exonerated the officers of the vessel, though it pointed out that the action of Captain Jaurès and Commander Joubert, in attempting themselves from the vessel, was irregular.

Silk and tea merchants having dealings with European firms at Canton are loudly complaining of the dangers to transit of merchandise and are reported to have decided to ask the British Consul to guarantee protection to cargoes shipped from the interior to Canton.

It is reported that the native banks at Canton have paid out practically all their monies to depositors and that in most cases only the original capital remains. If the new Government forces them to take the new bank-notes it is feared most of the banks will shut down.

Mr. A. M. Anderson, Solicitor-General for Scotland, in a speech in North Ayrshire, said that nobody had ever suggested that Ireland should be given control of the customs and excise. The Government, he said, proposed to put Ireland in the same position as that of British Columbia in relation to Canada.

Messrs. Kelly and Walsh continue to publish their useful desk calendar under the heading of the Imperial English and Chinese Diary and Almanac. This publication is now in its 20th year and in all probability it will be considerably altered next year following on the revolution in China and the adoption of the European calendar by the Chinese. The present issue maintains the high level reached in previous years.

The death is announced at Yokohama in her 51st year, of Mrs. Emily S. Patton, and wide circles in Japan and Shanghai will read the news of her demise with sincere regret. A worker up to the very last moment, Mrs. Patton must have been well over 50 when, coming up from Australia, where her father had been a Master-in-Equity in Victoria, she opened her dancing and tonic solo notation classes at Yokohama, and she maintained them, with the exception of an interregnum spent in Shanghai, till the end. The possessor of a fluent pen she was a voluminous contributor to the Australian press.

MACAO NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
MACAO, January 16.

Thanks to the happy revolution of attitude and feeling among the garrison units, "I am able, without indulging 'against the grain,' to re-echo some ticklish sallies of irrepressible John touching the new-comers. The Civic Guard, he opines, has certainly been loaned from the French—their grey helmets suggest it, and then the men are too 'business-like' in the light of past experience. The 'black devil' on the other hand, have assuredly laid Macao under contribution to England. A general impression has rated the pay of the first-named body as abnormally high and, the consequent sympathy with the latter has called forth the police per excellence are receiving no increment on their ordinary pay while in Africa. And with respect to local finances, we learn with glad surprise that the cash balance is in hand at the end of December last was reassuringly snug. The Civic Guards are here from choice, having, in response to a challenge on behalf of this Far Eastern Colony, volunteered their services to a soul. The high cost of living in Africa is alone accountable for their slight excess of pay over the rest. Though stringent injunctions have long been in operation against the sale of the native brew to Chinese and the military in particular, it will be a very cold day when good old John may be wheedled into giving 'black' a nip of the 'strong water' for he is said to be terrible when galvanised. Native anxiety has 'naturally' moved up in the awful contingency and our meek warrior is now credited with blood-curdling proclivities among which I note a relish for kindred anatomy which they gobble up raw and still bleeding. In verity, the African is ungovernable, even when sober, at sight of a fallen European comrade. Yet in dealing with this peculiar, albeit docile, genus, the European superior of floor must perform to always stern, if not harsh, as they invariably continue savagely into fear with reluctant abuse. The poor fellows have a strong partiality for music which they polish off uncooked, and H. E. The Governor has thought fit to humour their insouciant liking by a liberal provision of the grain.

The latest word in connection with Macao is that Captain Gouveia is leaving Macao on or about 20th inst., with 200 odd men from the European Infantry Corps. A vessel is being chartered to convey the contingent. The Patria is not leaving, as was rumoured yesterday.

I may mention that a detachment of some 300 souls, under a Major, were prepared to take ship from Portugal at a moment's notice from this end, but that H. E. the Governor did not so far deem their presence imperative.

PNEUMONIA.

YOU are probably aware that pneumonia always results from a cold, but you never heard of a cold resulting in pneumonia, when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used. Why take the risk when this remedy may be had for a trifle? For sale by all Chemists and Dispensaries.

MR. LAU CHU-PAK.

A Groundless Allegation.

The following telegrams from Shanghai, which have been handed to us for publication, speak for themselves:—

The Central China Famine Relief Committee, Shanghai, has received through the International Banking Corporation as per notification from the Hongkong Agent of the International Bank on January 5 and previous, $83,000 raised for Hankow and Central Famine Relief by Lau Chu-pak, Hongkong. The money was for relief only. The telegram is signed Mr. Lobenstein, Secretary to the Committee.

No truth in rumour. Lau Chu-pak sent arms in boxes addressed Relief Committee. The Committee has received, his boxes of biscuits and garments, which count as bona fide relief contributions.

This was also signed by Mr. Lobenstein.

THE ASSIZES.

The January Assizes, the first to be held in the new Courts of Justice, commences to-morrow. The calendar, which is not very heavy this month, includes the following:—Leung Ho, kidnapping; So Tai, So Lok, and Chi Mun, armed robbery; Abdoel Rajack Samy, 17, clerk in the International Bank, making alterations in account books and forgery; and Chow Kwong Lu and Tong Shui Ting, endeavouring to obtain by means of false pretences £200 bank notes of the Hongkong Cheung Bank, Swatow, from the Hongkong Printing Press.

MAGISTRATE'S DRASTIC PROCEDURE.

At the Magistracy this morning Mr. E. A. Irving adopted a very summary method in disposing of a case. Because Sergt. Grant, who was in charge of the case, was momentarily absent from court, owing to his being called to the detective office, his Worship discharged the defendant and refused to recall the case, contending that the officer in charge should have been present when the summons was called. The decision is all the more regrettable as the case was one in which a native was charged with inciting a crowd to violence. The defendant was arrested for having without a licence and immediately be called on a crowd of his nationals to strike the constable. The latter blew his whistle and four other constables came to his assistance and succeeded in dispersing the crowd.

SANITARY BOARD.

Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe presided over a meeting of the Sanitary Board on Tuesday afternoon, when there were also present:—Hon. Mr. E. R. Halliday, Hon. Mr. E. A. Hewitt, C.M.G., Lieut. Colonel Irwin, P.M.O.H., Dr. G. L. Fitzwilliams, Mr. Lau Chu Pak, Mr. Ng Hui Tan, Dr. F. Clark, Medical Officer of Health, Dr. W. Pearce, Assistant Medical Officer of Health, and the Secretary, Mr. W. Bowen-Rowlans.

In connection with the letter from Government relative to the erection of a latrine in D'Aguiar Street the President said that there was an objection from several people and he thought it was an objection to which the Board could not give in to. He recommended that a resolution of the Legislative Council be passed to enable the latrine to be placed in that situation. When an objection was raised, as in that case, that was the only means of indemnifying the Board.

Hon. Mr. Hewitt seconded and the motion was carried. Mr. Lau Chu Pak did not vote.

AN OVERLOOKED REPORT.

In connection with the minute by Dr. G. L. Fitzwilliams asking about the investigations of the Government Bacteriologist with regard to Pokfulam reservoir the President said the Board had already written to the Government asking for a copy and it had not been sent as promised.

Dr. Fitzwilliams—I asked that it be sent to the Board as soon as published and it has not been done. It is not a novel that we want copies of. All we want is to see the original and not to have it illustrated and so on.

The President: It is about as long as a novel and it takes as long to print one as it does a thousand.

Dr. Fitzwilliams—Why print it at all?

The President—You would like to see the original?

Dr. Fitzwilliams—Yes. We should have seen the original and not have this delay of so many months. The preliminary report was very unsatisfactory.

The President—I do not remember that the preliminary report was considered unsatisfactory by the members as a whole. I can do no more than remind the Government that a copy is due and that we should like it as soon as possible.

Dr. Fitzwilliams—Is a resolution necessary?

The President—I don't think so. Dr. Fitzwilliams—I move that the Government be asked to forward this report, or a copy of it, complete, to the Board without further delay.

No one seconded the motion and it was agreed to remind the Government that a copy of the report was due.

The death has occurred at Florence of the well-known journalist.

[Note—Mr Labouchere, of course, will be remembered for his association with Truth, of which journal he has been proprietor and editor for many years. His exposure of many frauds and the frankness of his criticisms won him many friends and many enemies, but there can be no doubt that he did great service for the public in his day, and many will long have kind remembrances of his activities.]

He was educated at Eton and entered the Diplomatic Service in 1854 but left it after ten years, turning to journalistic and political work. As a Liberal he sat successfully for Windsor, Middlesex and Northampton, representing the latter borough from 1880 to 1896. OUTPUT OF THE NATIONS.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

London, Jan. 16.

The output in mercantile shipbuilding for the year in the United Kingdom totalled 1,803,834 tons, a splendid increase of 660,675 tons.

The total foreign output was 846,296 tons, an increase of 32,000 tons.

There was an enormous decrease in the output of the United States, but France and Germany had big increases, and Holland had a record output.

The features of the year's shipbuilding were the size and speed of the vessels, many of which were driven by turbines or oil engines.

[Note—The increase of 660,675 tons in the output of mercantile tonnage in the United Kingdom compares with the previous year's increase of 152,103 tons. It is the biggest advance made in one year for over 20 years. The total output of 1,803,834 tons has only been exceeded once in the past two decades, namely in 1908, when the total was 1,825,343 tons. In the year 1910 the world's production was returned in tonnage as follows:—Britain, 1,143,169; United States, 331,318; Germany, 189,803; France, 60,767; Holland, 70,948; Norway, 36,071; Japan, 20,212. Begin at once to get your questions ready. Where are your dead friends and relatives? Where will you go when you are dead—to a place of torture, to bliss, or where? Do you know? How about the missionary movement? Why has not the world been converted? What has become of the millions of dollars donated to that work? Will it ever be converted? What is the trouble? What hope is there? Would God's will be done on earth if all people were as enlightened as they are in Hongkong? Would the world be like heaven then? Pastor Russell knows—ask him. Put your questions in writing, each question on a separate slip of paper and hand them in when you come to the evening meeting. All will be welcome. There will be no admission charge, and no collection will be taken up.

Pastor Russell is Chairman of a Committee of business men travelling through the Orient investigating the Missionary question and the work being done, the business method used, the doctrinal taught, and the success of the work so far. A public report will be made sometime next spring at a great Mass Meeting in New York City.

Remember the Hongkong Meetings of the 19th, at 8.15 and 9 o'clock p.m. See then judge.

SPORTING.

Training Notes.

Yesterday morning Sir Paul Chater galloped his old ponies and Derby griffins, surmising correctly that the going would be better then than it was this morning. The course, the sand track, was heavy then, and was worse this morning—being very sticky. The dirt at present seems to be the best of Sir Paul's griffins. He moves in good style and finishes game. The spotted white also seems to like it. Of the sub, trio the boy is considered by most as the best. Mr Macdonald's sub, did three-quarters in 40.36, 33 this morning. Mr Stan, Rea's sub, went over a mile and a quarter in a time over 3.22, last half 1.10.3, last quarter 34.2.
